responsive documents and generally describes the categories of responsive documents that have been produced. If defendants assert that it would be burdensome to search for and produce additional documents which may be responsive to this request, then defense counsel shall file with the Court a declaration detailing the alleged burden, unless an agreement of counsel can be reached regarding the scope of responsive documents to be produced which will obviate the need to file such a declaration.

Request for Production No. 37: The Court grants the Motion as to this request, and orders defendants to provide a supplemental response that sets forth the nature and extent of the search conducted to locate responsive documents and generally describes the categories of responsive documents that have been produced.

Request for Production No. 38: The Court grants the Motion as to this request, and orders defendants to provide a supplemental response that sets forth the nature and extent of the search conducted to locate responsive documents and generally describes the categories of responsive documents that have been produced.

Request for Production No. 39: The Court grants the motion as to this request, and orders defendants to provide a supplemental response.

Request for Production No. 42: The Court grants the Motion as to this request to the extent that defendants are ordered to produce documents described as "sample documents, that taken together, would set forth the complete and official statement of UC's policies that explicitly address the constitutional rights of students, parents and teachers."

Defendants' supplemental responses and any additional responsive documents shall be served on plaintiff's counsel, by no later than May 3, 2007. Courtesy copies of supplemental responses shall be served on the Court by no later than May 3, 2007.

Further, the Court schedules a follow-up telephonic discovery status conference for Monday, April 16, 2007, at 12:15 pm PDT. The Court will initiate the call with counsel. Should counsel agree that the telephonic conference call is unnecessary, counsel shall contact the Court Clerk at 213-894-8285, and the conference will be taken off calendar.
